Security clearances (international)

International visit requests must go through government to government channels. The Defense Attaché from your respective embassy should have the information and instructions for submitting these types of requests. You will need to have your agency coordinate getting your clearances passed from your embassy to the appropriate U.S. Government agencies and then to our Security Department at BAE Systems.

U.S. Government sponsorship of the visit must be obtained before classified material can be disclosed.

If the submitting agencies have on-site NGA or other U.S. government representatives, those representatives may also be able to provide assistance.

Our BAE Systems security offices have been informed that all foreign visits for classified meeting attendance are undergoing much more rigorous controls and that the above procedures must be followed.
